NEW-YORK CITY.

When Captain Chapman, of the West Thirtlethst, station, made a raid on the restaurant of Patrick O'Neill, in Broadway, near Fortleth-st., December 19, O'Neill was not in the place, and so escaped arrest. He heard that he was wanted Saturday night, and yesterday appeared at Jef-ferson Market Court and surrendered. Then he waived examination on the charge of keeping a disorderly house, and Magistrate Flammer held him in $500 for trial. He furnished ball and was

A dispatch from Indianapolis which appeared in yesterday's Tribune said that W. E. Dodge, of New-York, would be unable, because of ill-health, to preside over the Monetary Convention, which is shortly to be held in that city. When seen last night at her house, No. 262 Madison-ave., Mrs. Dodge said in reply to inquirles: "There is nothing specifically the matter with my husband's health. The reason that he felt compelled to refuse to allow his name to be considered in con-nection with the presidency of the Monetary Convention was that he felt his strength was not equal to the proper performance of the arduous duties attached to the position. He will, however, attend

Mrs. Wesley Fiske Smith, State president of the Young Women's Christian Association, and Mrs. Abbie Morrow, Editress of "The Sunday-School Illustrator," will be the principal speakers at the woman's union prayer-meeting to-day at 11 o'clock the Broadway Tabernacle Church, corner of Thirty-fourth-st.

John M. Ward, the popular ex-manager of the New-York Baseball Club, is chairman of the Reception Committee for the entertainment and reception to be given by the New-York Lodge of Elks on the evening of January 15 at Central Music Hall, Sixty-seventh-st. and Third-ave. "Nick" Engel, Charles Genslinger, Cornelius Van Cott and other well-known men are on this committee.

Magistrate Mott yesterday issued new orders governing the reporters and lawyers who have business in Yorkville Court. Before court opened he ordered the policemen to keep all reporters in the outer inclosure and make them sit down and not talk, and to treat lawyers the same way. The police enforced the orders, and the result was that the lawyers were obliged to wait until the cases they were interested in came up, and then ask leave of the Magistrate to read the papers in the case. The Magistrate also announced that he in tended making rules governing the court clerks.

A DRYGOODS STORE IN LINEN.

The art of dressing a store window has long since en one of the necessary attributes of successful business enterprise, so far as the retail trade in this city is concerned, and rare examples of it may be found daily in those parts of the city where the tread of millions of shoppers wear out the paving-stones; but it has remained for Hugh O'Neill & Co., of No. 329 Sixth-ave., to produce in one of their windows a display the like of which, it is said by co., of No. 329 Sixth-ave., to produce in one of their windows a display the like of which, it is said by one of the firm, has never been attempted.

The display referred to is a miniature reproduction of the building of the firm (which occupies an entire square), constructed from table linen. Linen rapkins are used almost exclusively, and every detail of the original has been faithfully observed and executed in the copy. At each end are the towers, and gracing the centre of the roof over the main entrance is the same decorative roof, with the flag of the firm waving proudly in the imaginative breeze which is supposed to be blowing. The name "Hugh O'Neill" appears in plain letters over the top windows in the middle of the building just as it does in the real thing. Below, the three entrances are made from rolled napkins, with the added effect of folding mirrors. All the numerous windows are shown in the design, and, as there is no attempt to imitate the large assortment of goods which the real store contains, fine lace is used, with the effect of giving the miniature structure an exceedingly dainty and beautiful appearance. All day yesterday crowds hung in front of this window, and exclamations of delight were repeatedly expressed. O'Neill & Co. begin their annual clearing sales in all the departments to-day, and an opportunity will be given to the shopping public to secure no end of bona fide good bargains.

Before beginning in sermon Mr. Moody announced that, beginning to-lay and continuing through the present week, noon meetings would be held in Cooper Union. "On February 3." said Mr. Moody, "one of Englands's foremost evangelists will be with us. He is Dr. Meyers, of London. He has promised to come and spend ten days with us and will preach to all of you who will come. I will announce later when the meetings will be held."

Mr. Moody preached on making excuses.

In his sermon in the evening Mr. Moody made an indirect reference to the recent Seciey dinner at Sherry's. "If men," he said, "who call themselves gentlemen will give a stag dinner such as was given in New-York City, the other day, it is time that those men be exposed and kicked out of society. I am glad to see that the papers have exposed this matter and brought it to light. The time has come when the Church should speak out and denounce such things, and if the pulpit does not do it, let the daily papers do it."

Mr. Moody closed by asking all those who wanted to be converted and "join in the marriage feast of the Lamb" to stand up, "I will pray for all those who stand up," said Mr. Moody. About a third of the audience stood up while Mr. Moody prayed.
